 LOGO INTEGRITY

Usage Guidelines

Consistency is key. The red 'X' element is a protected brand asset and must always remain Scarlet Red unless using monochrome variations.

> Use the full-color logo on white or light gray backgrounds

> Maintain minimum clear space equal to the width of the 's'

> The Scarlet Red 'X' must be clearly visible and vibrant

> Never change the color of the stylized red 'X'

> Never distort, skew, or rotate the logo elements

> Avoid using the logo on busy or low-contrast backgrounds

Internal training/reference archive only — NOT the locked production spec. Production ShortKey = monochrome ctrl+alt logo, shortkey.beauty domain.

TEST — Simplex-ity Accent Violet

Permanent internal archive — captured & rebuilt by Simpee, 9 Jul 2026

Hue-shift test using Simplex-ity's Accent Violet (#5e50fb).
Color fits, but layout/fonts still read as ShortKey streetwear, not Simplex-ity's premium editorial look.

 LOGO INTEGRITY

Usage Guidelines

Consistency is key. The red 'X' element is a protected brand asset and must always remain Accent Violet unless using monochrome variations.

- Use the full-color logo on white or light gray backgrounds
- Maintain minimum clear space equal to the width of the 's'
- The Accent Violet 'X' must be clearly visible and vibrant

- Never change the color of the stylized red 'X'

- Never distort, skew, or rotate the logo elements
- Avoid using the logo on busy or low-contrast backgrounds

Recolor experiment only — NOT an approved Simplex-ity brand asset. Real Simplex-ity identity also needs its own fonts (Exo 2/Montserrat) and softer 'World of Equilibrium' visual language.
